

Car parking

Whether it's on a metered street, airport or commercial station, car parking is cheaper with salary packaging.

In addition to your annual salary packaging limit, you may be able to salary package the cost of parking, if you work for a:

- charity or other not-for-profit organisation
- private or not-for-profit hospital
- private school, club, association or religious organisation.

Employees of public benevolent institutions (PBIs), registered charities, non-profit scientific institutions and public education institutions can salary package any car parking costs, whether your employer leases or owns the car space provided to you, or they reimburse you for a car parking expense incurred at work or somewhere else.

Employees of public and not for profit hospitals need to meet the following conditions to be eligible to claim car parking expenses:

- You pay for parking at or near your place of employment for less than four hours between 7.00am and 7.00pm. or
- Your employer leases or owns a car parking space and passes that cost on to you.

You can also claim for any other car parking, not near work as long as it is not connected with entertainment.

Rebatable employees other than registered charities (e.g. sporting clubs, associations, etc) can claim if the car is parked near work for less than 4hrs between 7am and 7pm; and for any other car parking not near work and not connected with entertainment.

Please note: Information, advice or guidance provided in this factsheet, is general in nature and provided without reference to your organisation's policies or your personal circumstances. Please contact your accountant, tax agent or legal adviser to determine how the information in this factsheet may apply to you.

